Mission Statement

The Psychology Department of Bethel College is committed to the mission of the institution. We affirm our Christian responsibility to be a witness and participant in the discipline and in the contemporary world. In light of the college's mission, the psychology program has set as its goal to challenge the mind, to enlarge the vision, and to equip the student for lifelong service.

To these ends, we set as the learning outcomes for the department that each psychology graduate should:

1. Develop competency in the skills and knowledge of the discipline.
 - a. Basic skills
 - Speak and write effectively within the scope of the discipline
 - Utilize quantitative and qualitative research designs and methods
 - Utilize basic descriptive and inferential statistical procedures
 2. Think analytically and critically within the discipline.
 - a. Christian perspective
 - Construct and use a Christian world view of psychology
 - b. Theoretical frameworks
 - Compare and contrast theoretical frameworks
 - Evaluate the utility of a theory in practice
 - c. Critical issues in the discipline
 - Identify ethical issues
 - Understand and respect diversity
 - Articulate theoretical differences and controversies
 - Understand the application of the discipline in public policy
 - d. Research
 - Evaluate research designs and methods
 - Evaluate research results
 - Evaluate the appropriateness of basic inferential statistical procedures
 - Interpret basic inferential statistical results
 - Critique and consume research
3. Apply, analyze, synthesize, and evaluate knowledge and skills in experiential situations.
 - a. Internship
 - Apply basic knowledge and theoretical concepts in an experiential setting
 - Evaluate utility of theoretical positions within a practical setting
4. Be prepared to utilize knowledge and skills in a variety of settings including interpersonal relationships, employment situations, and/or graduate or professional school.
